The thle is turning at last. A young self with a revolver and saliled out to shoot a young woman who had declined the offer of his hand! But she was up to snutl'. She read the papers, and having frequently acen accounts of similar affairs quietly resolving that no discarded lover could make a victim of her, not if the court, or rather the couried, understood herseif. When the young man arrived at the house on his deadly mission he found the fair but cruel one in the kitchen, doing the week's ironing. She didn't appear to euspec', and he expected to have an easy time preparing her for the coroner; but when he reached around to his pistoi pocket, with the remark that her time had come, she stated, "I guess not!" and knocked him down with a litt iron, demolishing his nose and front teeth. Then she gave him the scalding contents of a tes-kettle that was singing cheerful airs on the stove, and when the family came in she was mopping the fiber with him. The next time he proposes and is refused he will probably conclude that that settles it.

PRESIDENT CLEVELANT

VICE PRESIDENT HENDRICKS AND THE CABINET.

Pen and Pencil Skotches of the New Adndnistration-The Men Who Are to Gulde the Ship of State Under the New Democratic Regime.

GROVER CLEVELAND, PRESIDENT OF THE

UNITED STATES. In 1870, Mr. Cieveland was chosen sheriff of Erie county, N. Y., and served a single term. In 1881 he was elected mayor of the city of Buffaio, in the same state, and on November of the following year he was elected governor of the state of New York by the largest majority ever given to auy candidate for the same office in any state of the Union, and ou November 4 was elected president. Such is the brief but remarkably brilliant political career of President Cleveland. He is descended from a New England family noted for its religious real. ilis great grandfather was a Congregational minister of Norwich Conn. His father, Richard Cieveland, was a Presbyterian. He married a MIss Neal, of Baltimore, and soon after settled as pastor of a little church in the town born March 18, 1837. Receiving a commou school education and a brief course of study at an academy, young Grover determined at the age of eighteen to go west and seek his fortune, so he started for Cleveland, O., being attracted to that city because it bore his name. On his way there he stopped at Buffalo to visit his uncle, Mr. Lewis F. Alien, who offered him a cierkship in order to prevent him going further This position he accepted, and soon after, determining on law as his profession, he entered the office of Rogers, Bowen & Rogers to study. In 1859 he was admitted to the bar. Four years later he was appointed assistant district attorney for the county of Erie, which position he held for three years In 1865 he was nominated for district attorney, but was defeated. In 1871 he became a member of the law firm of Bass, Cleveland & Bissell. Mr. Cleveland is one of a family of nine children

THOMAS ANDREWS HENDRICKS, VICE PRESI-DENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Thomas Andrews Hendricks was born in Muskingum county, Ohio, September 7, 1819. in 1922 his father settled in Shelby county, Ind. Thomas graduated at South Hanover college in 1843, studied law at Chambersburg, I'a, was admitted to the bar there in 1848, and returned to Indiana to practice. In 1848 he was a member of the legislature, and in 1850 a delegate to the state constitutional conven-Indianapolis district in congress, from 1855 to governor just fall, and although defeated he 1850 was commissioner of the general land received a very haudsome vote. office, and from 1863 to 1969 was a member of the United States senate, in which he was regarded as the democratic leader. As candi date for governor of Indiana he was defeated in 1860 and 1868, but was elected in 1873 for the term ending January 1, 1877. as a caudidate for the vice presidency. In 1876 he shared the defeat of Samuei J. Tilden. Mr. Hendricks has a patrleian face and bearing, a ready voice and cold light blue eyes. He can make a graceful speech and taiks weil aiways. He belongs to the intellectual and rapidly iu creasing order of smooth-faced men. high forhead, squarely built face, Roman nose and thin, closely compressed tips bespeak the reserve and caution which are the dominant traits of his character.

THOMAS F. BAYARD, SECRETARY OF STATE. Tirree generations of Bayards have occupied exaited stations in congress and our diplomatio service. Grandfather, son and grandson have all been distluguished members of the United States senate. The two latter were members of that body from the same state for a time, which is the only instance of the kind that has occurred. The present member of this illustrious family, Thomas F. Bayard, is ln his fifty-seventh year. He is tall, well built, heaithy, has been sixteen years in the senate, and is looked upon in Washington as a type of official purity. Hy has been married twenty-eight yestes, and has twelve children, nine of whom any daughters. Mrs. Bayard spends a part of each winter with her husband in Washington, though she much pre-

DANIEL MANNING, SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

What Mr. Manning is he owes to himself. His boyhood was so hard aud short that at nine years of age he was forced to earn a living as office isy in The Aibany Argus, where he learned to set type, making his way into William Cassidy, the editor's, good graces. lie was a sterdy, bright-faced, active lad, with a direct, simple way of saying things, that soon made him available as a reporter In time Cassidy made him city editor, and on Cassidy's death years afterwards he stepped into his place. Perhaps the rarest luck that ever befel Daniel Mauning was the liking William Cassidy took to him. The editor of The Argus was not only a keen politician, an accomplished scholar and a brilliant writer, but he was one of the most highly bred men ever known in Albany society. From his honest Irish parents young Mauning got the rugged constitution and powerful frame that college dipioma. But from William Cassidy he learned suave courtery and easy dignity. it has often been said that no man could associate with Cassidy and not learn to behave like a gentleman. Mr. Manning has been the president of a bank, a leader in the enterprise of Albany and the greatest single power in of Essex, N. J., where Grover was his community. He has great common sense and business sagacity, qualities that have made his paper a power and turned the opportuuities it threw in his way into the roads to an honest and a handsome fortune. He is an adroit aud imperturbable politician, who uses candidates rather than others in his game. He has never until now held an office, though he has disposed of many. He has long been a disciple of Samuel J. Tiideu, and as chairman of the democratic state committee he has a nationa reputation

WILLIAM CROWNINSHIELD ENDICOTT, SECAR TARY OF WAR.

Ex-Judge Endicott was born in Salem about 1827. He graduated from Harvard coilege in the class of 1847 r married his cousin, a daughter of George P body. He has two children, a son and a daughter. Judge Endicott was admitted to the bar about 1850. Gov. Washburn appointed him to a seat on the supreme beach in 1873, which be held until 1882, when he resigned. He is a member of the Massachusetts Historic society and of the board of overseers of Harvard college. Judge Endicott is a direct descendant from Gov. John Eudicott. Until the Bell and Everett ampaign he was an oid-line whig. At that time he come into the democratic party. As a lawyer he has been very thorough, and in pleading a case very dignified. As a judge he stood high in rank. He has never been prominent in politics, until he was the nominee of tion. From 1851 to 1855 he represented the the democratic party of Massachusetts for

WILLIAM C. WHITNEY, SECRETARY OF THE MAVY.

William C. Whitney was born at Conway, Mass., forty-five years ago. He is the son of James 8 Whitney, of Boston, and son-in-law of Henry B. Payne, of Ohio. He graduated at Yale in 1863, and theu at Harvard law school. Coming to New York he took a desk in the office of Judge A. R. Lawrence. Here Whitney became familiar with the intricate laws of Gotham, which it afterwards became his duty as corporation counsel to enforce. His admission to the New York bar took place in 1864. His business for some time was chiefly in connection with corpora-tions, in which he obtained a large practice. Prior to his first appointment as corporation counse! of the city of New York, which took piace in 1873, at the time when the Twosi ring affairs were still dragging through the courts, he held the office successively through the administration of several mayor till 1883, when he resigned, as he said, for personal reasons. It is not to be presumed that because he proved the exception to Andrew Jackson's remark about efficeholdersthat few die and none resign—that the office was not in important one. The malary was $15,000 per year. The suits in the courts in which the city was concerned seldom involved less than $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. Mr. Whitney is tail and lean, with a free and easy juvenile manner. He is fond of good linners and good society.

AUGUSTUS H. GARLAND, ATTORNEY GENERAL Though a native of Tennessee Senator Garland's family removed to Arkansas when he was but one year old. He received a collegiate education in Kentucky and was admitted to the bar at the age of twenty. He was a delegate to the state convention that passed the ordinance of secession and subsequently served in both houses of the confederate congress. He was elected the United States enate from Arkansas 466. In 1874 he was ejected governor of his .te. took his seat In the United States senat in 1977 and was reelected in 1883. After his admittance to the bar at the age of twenty-two, he spent many years as a tutor in various coileges. He was a member from Mississippi of the 35th and 36th congresses, prior to the breaking out of the war, but re signed to take part in the secession convention of his state. In the confederate army he won a coionelcy. After the war he was elected to the forty-third and forty-fourth congresses, and then elected to the United States senate in 1977, and re-elected in 1983. The eulogy of Charles Sumner, delivered by Mr. Lamar in the house of representatives in March, 1874, was the advance step toward healing the sec tional differences that existed between the north and south. W. F. VILAS, POSTMASTER GENERAL Mr. Vilas was born at Chelsea, Orange county, Vt., July 9, 1840. When he was eleven years old he went to Wisconsin and entered as a pupil of the university of that state, and was graduated there in 1858. After which he studied law in Albany, N. Y., and was graduated from the law school of that city in 1860. Being admitted to the supreme court of New York he removed to Wisconsin, and in 1860 he made his first argument before the supreme court of that state. Upon the outbreak of the war Mr. Vilas entered the army as captain in the twenty-third Wisconsin volunteers, and rose to be major and lieutenant-colonei. He resigned his commis sion and resumed the practice of the law January 1, 1964. The supreme court of Wisconsin appointed Col. Vilas one of the revisors of the statutes of the state in 1875, and the revision of 1878, adopted by the state, was partly made by him. In 1879 Mr. Vilas refused the use of his name as a candidate for the governorship of Wisconsin. He has persistently declined office, but went to Chicago as a delegate to the convention of 1884, which hon ored him with its permanent chairman-

THE INAUGURAL PROCESSION.

To a man on top of the Washington monu ment the capital must have looked as it did in the spring of 1865, when the victorious armies and the multitude behind, with them gathered here. Again the multitudes poured in from every side of the city. Great squares of moving musket barrels gleamed in the sun, banners, flags and transparencies rose above the compact masses of marching civilians. Gorgeous bands formed respiendent squares here and there, and so closely packed were the shifting multitudes of spectators filing the spaces between the car tracks and the bulidings that the very ground seemed alive. The sight of the marching troops, ascending Capitol Hill from all directions was a grand one, and different strains of music from many bands had an inspiring effect upon the multitude. By half-past 10 o'clock the space east of the main entrance of the capitol was literally packed with human beings. Many persons took positions on the steps of the louse wing as early as ? o'clock in order to have a good view of the proceedings. Nearly as far as the eye could reach from the capitol in all directions the streets and avenues were crowded with military organizations. Both sides of Fennsylvania avenue from Eighteenth street to the capitol were lined with a surging mass of humanity. The stands

The number of passes issued, however, was not smail, each senator receiving five and each representative two. As soon as the doors were opened the galleries of the scuate rapidly filled. Many holding tickets to the senate wing, but not to the galleries, filled the wings and corridors. The military organizations assembled in the cross streets about the Capi tol park, where they remained while the president elect delivered his luaugural address.

BILL NYE TO GROVER

Imparts Some Valuable Suggestions.

To Provident Grover Cleveland: DEAR Sim: The painful duty of turning over the administration of these United States and the key to the front door of the white house has been assigned to me. You will find the key hanging inside the storm-door and the eistern pole upstairs in the haymow of i have made a great many suggestions to the outgoing administration relative to the transfer of the Indian bureau from the department of the interior to that of the sweet by and by. The Indian, I may say, has been their number having jumped one of my most valuable mining claims on Whiteriver. Still, I do not complain of that. This mine, however, I am convinced would be a good paying property if properly worked, and should you at any time wish to take the regular army and such other help as you may need and recapture it from our red brothers I would be glad to give you a controlling interest in it.

You will find all papers in their appropriate pigeon holes, and a small jar of cucumber pickles down cellar, which were left over and to which you will be perfectly welcome. The asperities and heart burnings that were the immediate result of a hot and unusually bitter campaign are now all buried. Take these pickies and use them as though they were your own. They are none too good for you. You deserve them. We may differ politically, but that need not interfere with our warm personal friendship.

You will observe, ou taking possession of the administration, that the navy is a little bit weather beaten and wornly. I would suggest that it be newly painted in the spring. If it had been my good fortune to receive a majority of the suffrages of the people for the office which you now hold, i ould have painted the navy red. Still, that need not influence you in the course which you may see fit to adopt.

I hope you will receive the foregoing in a friendly spirit, and whatever your convictions may be upon great questions of national interest, either foreign or domestic, that you will not undertake to blow out the gas on retiring, and that you will in other ways realize the fond anticipations which are now cherished in your behalf by a mighty people whose aggregated eye is now on you.

P. S.—You will be a little surprised, no doubt, to find no sosp in the laundry or bathrooms. It probably got into the campaign in some way and was absorbed. B. N.
